It's cold. It's winter. Think warm. Think stadium coat. Think coach's jacket. BIRDIE provides two great styles to keep you warm when you have to be out in the cold. Both are three-quarter-length coats made of oxford nylon; both have linings of 22 oz. 100% polyester Sherpa; both have quilted sleeve linings; both have heavy-duty nylon knit cuffs. The stadium coat (style #7000), has side vents to provide easy walking and sitting, plus a huge Sherpa-lined combination hood/collar. Style #2500—our coach's jacket—has many features, including a heavyweight zipper that opens top and bottom (which makes for comfortable sitting); a double nylon hood for warmth that hides inside a zippered undercollar; an inside drawstring; and clipboard-size, snap-sealed slash pockets.

The #2500 is available in sizes S through 2XL, while the #7000 is available in sizes 2XS through XL.

Selecting the proper fabric and appropriate design is key to manufacturing jackets that attract the consumer. BIRDIE's experience in producing successful classic and award-style jackets now carries over into today's more active and fashionable lifestyles.

Style #1000 has an outer shell of chintz, a treated blend of man-made fabrics. The knit waistband and cuffs are 100% textured polyester. The three pocket welts and dog-leash collar are knit trimmed. A covered metal zipper, color-matched nylon taffeta lining, epaulets, and rifle-shoulder detail make this jacket a winner.

The modified version of the #1000—our style #8215—does not have the shoulder treatment or trimmed pocket welts. We use grippers (not snaps); silver nylon taffeta lining; and an exposed, molded zipper.

Style #9000 is a sharp-looking, two-toned garment made of Supplex®, a brand of treated nylon with the look, feel, and properties of cotton, but maintaining the strength of nylon. The contrast of the two shades is set off by piping in a third color. A nylon taffeta lining matches the lower half of the jacket, as do the knit waistband and cuffs. A functional action back completes this sporty look.
